Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 10-17 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 10-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ginter et al (U.S PG Pub No. 2005/017716) in view of Nishikawa et al (U.S. Patent No. 5,408,607).

4. As per claims 10 and 14, Ginter et al an information processing apparatus, comprising first storage means for storing reference information including user information and characteristic information of the information processing apparatus reception means for receiving first information encrypted with a first key and second information containing one or more usage conditions of the first information and one or more usage details for the usage conditions (see paragraphs 0239), usage detail selection means for selecting usage details of the second information received by the reception means based on the usage conditions of the second information and the reference information stored in the first storage means (see paragraphs 0117), second storage means for storing usage history of using the first information according to the usage details selected by the usage detail selection means (see paragraphs 0144), usage control information generation means for generating usage control information for the first information based on the usage details selected by usage detail selection means and the usage history stored by the second storage means (see paragraphs 0210), and control means for controlling the first information according to the usage control information generated by the usage control information generation means (see paragraphs 0406 see also paragraphs 0418, 1195, 1834, 1922, 1927, 1930, 2118, 2276, 2293, 2301). Ginter et al fail to teach an invention wherein the set of information of the usage detail are decided by the usage condition including user condition and equipment condition. However, Nishikawa et al teach an invention wherein the set of information of the usage detail are decided by the usage condition including user condition and equipment condition (see fig 40, col. 9 line 19-46, 21 lines 14-22 line 44). Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Ginter et al's system to include Nishikawa et al's an invention wherein the set of information of the usage detail are decided by the usage condition including user condition and equipment condition because this would have provide better management control of the equipment.

5. As per claims 11, Ginter et al an information processing apparatus wherein the control means decrypts the first information encrypted with the first key with a second key which is distributed from a key distribution center and having an expiration date after which the second key cannot be used (see paragraphs 0285).

6. As per claims 12 and 16, Ginter et al an information processing apparatus wherein the usage detail selected by the usage detail selection means also includes control transfer status information which shows whether or not the first information can be transferred to other apparatuses (see paragraphs 0406).

7. As per claims 13 and 17, Ginter et al an information processing apparatus wherein the usage history stored by the second storage means also includes usage type information of when the first information is used (see paragraphs 0406).

8. As per claims 15, Ginter et al an information processing apparatus wherein the first key for encrypting the first information is encrypted with a second key which is distributed from a key distribution center and having an expiration date after which the second key cannot be used (see paragraphs 0406).

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a).

Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

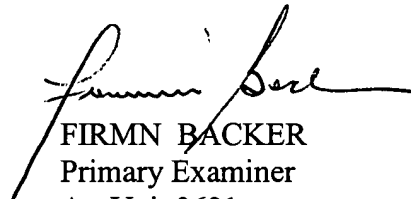

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
